BEHAVIOURAL PROFILE

JASMINE (alias)

- Jasmine is naturally introverted and prefers to spend most times alone.
- She is averagely intelligent, a logical thinker and possesses minor creative and analytical skills.
- She is not very energetic and stays away from physical confrontations; she would prefer desk jobs to jobs that require much physical exertion. She can be very forgetful and would not be able to focus for long due to her lack of energy.
- She is flexible in her dealings with people and can compromise if the need arises. She is naturally not a possessive person but due to her low self-esteem, she would easily get jealous and would have tendencies to be possessive in relationships.
- She has gone through a lot of emotional pain, damage or trauma from her childhood due to her relationship with her parents or issues she experienced at home growing up.
- She is going through a lot of depression, stress and may be having some suicidal thoughts. She doesn't trust people easily and doesn't easily get intimate with people. Her trust issues and emotional distance would likely be due to traumas, emotional damages or deep pains she has suffered while growing up from family or her environment.
- She is a generous, diplomatic and would do her best to help people when in need or settle issues amicably. She can get easily influenced by friends or colleagues and would show some nonchalant behaviors towards certain areas in her life. She lacks much patience and has tendencies to be rebellious as well as disregard people opinions.

- She is cautious in entering new relationships and skeptic about people or things to avoid future mistakes, potential harm or emotional pain. She has a temper but would usually not express it due to her withdrawn state.
- She is emotionally independent and can hold back a lot of pain without much complaining. She is a selective or bad listener with tendencies to be secretive, lazy and procrastinate.
- She has low sexual drive/commitment in her relationships and has suffered frustrations from her relationships.
- She gets emotionally unstable a lot and has tendencies to be disorganized. She has a low self-esteem and often feels insecure.
- She has minor or periodic pains in her body and may have some health issues due to weakness.

SUMMARY/CONCLUSION (this would be linked to added request in the email)

She is an introverted and averagely intelligent person who is going through a lot of depression due to negative family issues she suffered growing up, frustrations in her relationships, a low self-image and some likely health issues.

She is kind and generous but had tendencies to disregard people's opinions. She is not a difficult person to deal but should be treated with caution due to her likely suicidal state. She is easy to get along with but can be very emotionally unstable.
